Display Guidelines

The OTC Bulletin Board has set the following minimum display requirements for market data vendors. These display standards are design to provide investors with the most complete data possible.

- Unique Market Center Identifier. Vendors must clearly differentiate OTC Bulletin Board securities by displaying a unique and recognizable market center identifier. This requirement is designed to help investors differentiate securities traded on the OTC Bulletin Board securities from those trade on The Nasdaq Stock Market or Pink Sheets.
- Delay Message. Vendors are required to display a prominent disclaimer (e.g., "Quotations are delayed at least 15 minutes") on any screen contained delayed quotation and/or trade data for OTC Bulletin Board securities. (Please note that this display requirement als pertains to the display of quotation and trade data for Nasdaq securities).
- Quotation Condition. Vendors must clearly differentiate firm from indicative quote information for OTC Bulletin Board securities. Quotations for all Limited Partnership securities must be displayed as indicative or non-firm. (For guidelines on how to process OTC Bulletin Board quotation information, please refer to section 9.0 of the Nasdaq Level 1 Vendor Interface Specification.)

Please submit evidence of adherence to these display guidelines along with this form. For example, a firm may wish to include screen samples showing the display for an OTC Bulletin Board issue, a Nasdaq issue, and an other OTC equity issue. Questions about the OTC Bulletin Board display requirements should be directed to Nasdaq Trading and Market Services at (202) 728-8480.
